PRESS OPINIONS

The Times, London, May 21, 1896.

No such monument has ever been erected to any painter. To attempt such a work at all, three things were necessary — photography with its modern development, enterprise, and a critical authority as complete as Dr. Bode's is.

The Times, London, April 14, 1897.

We commend this book as a wonderful result of modern reconstructive scholarship, zeal, and enterprise. When the eight volumes are completed, they will be quite indispensable to every library which concerns itself with the history of art.

The Times, London, January 7, 1898.

The second of the eight volumes of this important and splendid work has just been issued by M. Sedelmeyer and is not less carefully executed than the first.

The volume as a whole, like its predecessor, represents all that scholarship, care and money can do towards the erection of a worthy monument to Rembrandt's memory.

Illustrated London News, April 25, 1896.

The value and beauty of this collection, which exceeds anything before attempted, are beyond controversy.

The Daily Telegraph, London, October 22, 1896.

The work will be a veritable monument to the genius of the very greatest of all painters.

American Register, Paris, March 27, 1897.

A magnificent work of art, at which no less a connoisseur than Mr. Charles Sedelmeyer, the well-known dealer and expert in art, in collaboration with Director Bode, has been working for fully fifteen years, has at last been completed. It is the richly illustrated edition in eight large volumes of « L'Oeuvre Complet de Rembrandt, » a veritable literary and artistic monument to the great Dutch master, all of whose works, scattered throughout the world, have here been reproduced in heliogravure, with full descriptive text. The first volume has made its appearance, and, as might well have been foreseen, does great credit to the enterprising editor as well as to France.

The Art Amateur, New York, April 15, 1897.

Never has such a work been done, either in honour of any single artist or for the reproduction of his works, to even approach « The Complete Work of Rembrandt » — a work issued by Mr. Sedelmeyer, of Paris.... It comes in the shape of a fat volume, handsomely bound in the most sumptuous form of artistic embellishment and typography, and, though it is not in itself a work of art, in its magnificence as an art work, is a book of reference no true collector of art can afford to disregard.

The Art Amateur, New York, September, 1899.

We have already spoken in terms of the highest praise of the first two volumes of this magnificent work. The third is, if possible, still more remarkable. In it, Mr. Bode, as biographer, has reached one of the most interesting periods of Rembrandt's artistic career, that immediately succeeding his marriage, and leads with a series of Biblical and mythological compositions — and the portraits and studies connected with them — including some of the painter's acknowledged masterpieces.

We need not expatiate on the importance of Dr. Bode's « Rembrandt » to collectors. It promises to be the first really adequate representation of a great painter's work. Mr. Sedelmeyer's courage, taste, and judgment cannot be too liberally acknowledged. He is producing a monograph, which will be of inestimable advantage to all serious students of art, and one which we are entitled to hope will be accepted as a standard for other publications of the kind. It would certainly be difficult to imagine anything more perfect than the way in which the work, literary, artistic, and mechanical, has, thus far, been done. The text is in its completeness and reliability, worthy of the great artist to which it is devoted, and the illustrations, reproduced by the heliogravure process, are worthy of the text.

The Art Amateur, New York, June, 1900.

The fourth volume of this great work, issued in magnificent style by Mr. Sedelmeyer, the fourth volume, dealing with one of the most important periods of the artist's life, that between the dates 1637-45, has just been issued.

As in the other volumes, previously reviewed, the reproductions include every picture belonging to the period under consideration.

It will take four more volumes and a supplement to finish the work, making it the most extended and the most complete literary and artistic monument ever erected to the fame of any painter.

The Times, London, February 14, 1902.

The present work is marching towards its conclusion with perfect regularity, and when we shall be able to congratulate the editor and publisher upon the completion of the work, which is absolutely unique among the tributes which scholarship and the reproductive processes have paid to art.
